About CASFAA

CASFAA is currently celebrating our 32th anniversary! In June of 1979, www.casfaa.ca

the Canadian Association of Financial Aid Administrators (CASFAA) was formally established.

The Association was formed to represent Financial Aid Administrators and Awards Officers in colleges and universities across Canada. We are the only national professional association representing Financial Aid Administrators at Canada's public colleges (including Colleges offering apprenticeship programs, one and two year certificate and upgrading programs) and universities.

CASFAA has established a national profile with educational institutions, federal and provincial government departments, student organizations, perspective and various other stakeholders in the post-secondary arena. CASFAA provides expertise and a national perspective to the issues of student financial assistance. CASFAA's input is sought by numerous agencies, councils and financial institutions. We also take an active role in government policy reviews of financial assistance for students, most recently co-chairing the National Advisory Group on Student Financial Assistance (NAGSFA). We strongly encourage and promote programs that remove financial barriers to ensure student access to post-secondary education.

CASFAA promotes professional development for its members by offering excellent programs of presentations and workshops during the annual national conferences. We also produce valuable tools such as our annual "Out of Province Summary", and member directory. The listserv and website are dynamic and informative tools that are invaluable sources of peer support to our members.

We have partnered with various prestigious educational research organizations such as the Canada Millennium Scholarship Foundation, and the Educational Policy Institute to produce valuable research in the areas of student financial assistance. We encourage you to review our latest publication, "The End of Need" which is posted on the CASFAA website.

We would like to invite you to join CASFAA and see the benefits of membership rights and privileges.
